FRP

FRP was selected as a material for its amazing ability to create ultra-realistic finishes that perform to high levels indoors and outdoors.

Lifelike woods in soft weathered greys and limestone finishes accurately reflect wood and stone while eliminating the challenges of using real wood or stone indoors or outdoors. Superior resistance to moisture, stains, pests, and UV damage makes these indoor finishes ideal for outdoor use.

At the end of its intended use, FRP material can be recycled for a variety of future uses, including compost, or recreated in other useful forms.
